Shakespeare Everywhere Lecture Series

Time to Talk: About Shakespeare - the third in a fascinating series

By IN Series: Opera that Speaks. Theater that Sings.

Date and time
Starts on Wednesday, October 25 · 5pm EDT

Location
The Aspen Institute

2300 N Street Northwest #700 Washington, DC 20037 United States

About this event

Time to Talk: About Shakespeare

Whether we are looking at the arts pages or the headlines, there is no better time than now to talk about Shakespeare. In this special panel, Marjorie Garber will moderate a discussion between and Shakespeare scholars from the Washington area. How can Shakespeare's plays generate empathy and understanding, when speaking across the divide of centuries? How do some of his most profound plays resonate when translated into a 21st century context in which differences of gender, race and class challenge early modern categories?

Moderator:

Marjorie Garber, William R. Kenan, Jr. Research Professor of English and of Visual and Environmental Studies, Harvard University. Author of Shakespeare After All and Shakespeare and Modern Culture

Panelists:

Drew Lichtenerg, Associate Director and former Resident Dramaturg at Shakespeare Theater Company.

Carla Della Gatta, Visiting Associate Professor of Theatre and Performance Studies, University of Maryland. Author of Latinx Shakespeares: Staging US Intracultural Theater.

Alexa Alice Joubin, Professor of English, Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, Theatre, International Affairs, and East Asian Languages and Literatures, George Washington University (GWU). Inaugural recipient of the bell hooks Legacy Award.

About the organizer

Organized by
IN Series: Opera that Speaks. Theater that Sings.
A Washington, D.C. based opera company, we make theater from music: transforming artists, audiences, and community by disrupting expectations, nourishing empathy, stimulating insight, and deepening the conversation. Find our digital 2020-2021 season at invision.inseries.org